

Examples of poetry produced in response to a creative journaling workshop by pupils at Lochaber School

These trees are...

an old couple, cuddling to keep warm.

These trees are

two sisters hugging.

These trees are

neighbours shaking hands.

These trees are

two best friends, linking arms.

These trees are

loud like children.

These trees are

mothers, protecting their babies.

These trees are

whispering secrets to each other.

These trees are

life, pointing to the stars.

By Sophie MacAllister

This pond is...

This pond is a book
with so many things inside.

This pond is a home
for fish to come and hide.

This pond is a work of art that trees lean over to see.

This pond is a lock
but we need to find the key.

This pond is a lid
for a world underneath.

This pond is a giant
with fish, cozy beneath his feet.

By Ashleigh Chan